If the School Fits...

Adult education from the student's perspective

This 23-minute video was produced by a group of professionals (see below) who participated in Capitol Region Education Council's interagency professional development program called Project BUILD during 1997-98. This video features 13 students from their agencies talking about their experiences in adult education. It can be useful to your program especially in student recruitment, orientation, and staff training.
