

CT River Academy, East Hartford, CT

The Connecticut River Academy is an early college high school on Goodwin College's new campus in East Hartford. Located beside the historic Connecticut River, the Academy's environmental science focus includes river studies; land, water and air quality; plant and animal growth; human ecology; and renewable energy. The Connecticut River Academy consists of grades 9 through 12. Chris Cykley serves as the Program Manager for this accelerated multi-phased project. The scope of services performed include: development of swing space, hiring architect and construction manager, development of budget, schedule and commencement of construction.
