

Student and Educator Support Specialist (SESS) Evaluation Trainings

Announcing the Common Core of Teaching (CCT) Rubric for Effective Service Delivery 2014

In this half-day training session, educators will have the opportunity to review, understand, and apply the four domains and 12 indicators of the new CCT Rubric for Effective Service Delivery 2014, a companion rubric to the revised CCT Rubric for Effective Teaching 2014. This rubric can be used with educators, who by the nature of their job description, do not have traditional classrooms, but may serve a caseload of students, staff, and families.

This training session is highly recommended for administrators who evaluate student and educator support specialists, or other educators who may be more appropriately observed using this companion rubric.

The training objectives are to:

1. Identify challenges and strategies to evaluate student and educator support specialists
2. Understand the rationale for the CCT Rubric for Effective Service Delivery 2014 and for whom it may apply
3. Understand the organization and structure of the new CCT Rubric for Effective Service Delivery 2014
4. Have the opportunity to interact with the domains and indicators within the CCT Rubric for Effective Service Delivery 2014

This workshop is provided at all six RESC locations on six different dates for your convenience.

The workshops are free, but participants must register using the registration links provided below.

On the day of a professional development event, please call the host RESC for cancellation and delay information.
