Microsoft Office Specialist (MOS) Certification

What is MOS?

The MOS is the only Microsoft-approved program in the world for certifying proficiency in Microsoft Office desktop applications. CREC serves as one of a few Microsoft IT Academy and Authorized Testing Centers in Connecticut and offers training targeted for school and office personnel to earn their MOS certifications.

Certification holders leverage the full set of features and functionality of the Microsoft Office application suite, resulting in increased job performance and efficiency within their organizations.

CREC offers the MOS certification preparation at three levels:

- Core certification ensures a basic level of proficiency for individual Microsoft Office products including Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access, Outlook, SharePoint, OneNote, and Office 365.
- Expert certification denotes a more advanced level of proficiency in Word and Excel.
- Master certification comes with the successful completion of the Word Expert, Excel Expert, PowerPoint (core), and one additional certification in Access, Outlook, SharePoint, OneNote, or Office 365.

The courses are conducted in one six-week module per Microsoft Office application. To accommodate demanding work schedules and foster self-paced learning, we deliver the training through a blended learning model that includes face-to-face and online instruction.
