Description: This three-day institute is for experienced instructional coaches of all grade levels and subject areas who have attended Instructional Coaching training or have at least 4-5 years of coaching experience. The institute will focus on building better relationships, having productive conversations, assessing student work, providing feedback, using videotape to improve instruction, becoming an agent for change, and identifying ways to promote teacher reflection to improve student learning.

Through collaborative inquiry, participants will gain a deeper understanding of various coaching frameworks, theories, research, current perspectives and practices, and explore the unique perspective of a "coaching mindset." New this year, participants will engage in their own personal one-on-one coaching conversations with experienced CREC coaches.

Audience: Instructional coaches, department chairs, teacher leaders, district leadership, and school administrators
