

Privilege: Who Has It?

What Does It Mean for Students and Families, Teachers, and Leaders?

When:

December 15

9 a.m. to noon

Where:

CREC Central
111 Charter Oak Ave.
Hartford, CT

Cost:

$60 per person

REGISTER

For a complete listing of CREC's Expert Solutions
events, visit
www.crec.org/events

Description: During this workshop, participants will explore the meaning, history, and political implications of privilege in the United States, and how privilege impacts students, teachers and leaders. Because of recent national events and the US history of slavery, we will explore privilege as it relates to race. We will also examine how privilege relates to gender, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, ability, language, and national origin. Participants will leave this workshop with a deeper understanding of privilege and its impact on teaching and learning.

Audience: All educators, administrators

For additional information contact

Sue Renehan at srenehan@crec.org.

 CREC
Expert Solutions

Please bring ear buds and a laptop or other device for note taking and access to on-line resources.