Relations with Non-custodial Parents

The CREC Council, unless informed otherwise, assumes that there are no restrictions regarding the non-custodial parent's right to be kept informed of the student's school progress and activities. If restrictions are made relative to these rights, the custodial parent will be required to submit a certified copy of the court order which curtails such rights, to the superintendent.

Unless there are specific court-imposed restrictions, such as a final divorce decree which includes specific denial of visitation rights or a restraining order denying such rights, the non-custodial parent, upon written request, may view the student's educational, medical or similar records maintained in such student's cumulative record, including the student's class rank, receive school progress reports, visit the child briefly at school and have an opportunity to conference with the student's teacher(s).

The CREC Council presumes that the person who enrolls a student in school is the student's custodial parent. Further, the parent with whom the student resides is known as the custodial parent unless a legal document or signed parental agreement indicates otherwise. Verification may be required from the custodial parent.

While both parents can visit the student at school, only the custodial parent has the right to remove the student from school property. Only a verified note from the custodial parent will be cause for exception to this provision. If school personnel anticipate a possible student abduction, law enforcement personnel are to be notified immediately.

The custodial parent has the responsibility to keep the school office informed as to the address of residence, in a manner determined by the school, and how they may be contacted at all times. Any legal documents which restrict the rights of the non-custodial parent must be provided by the custodial parent.
