

Instruction

General

The CREC Council believes the instructional program of its schools/programs to be among its highest priorities, and it is therefore important for the Council and the professional staff to work cooperatively in determining educational goals and objectives which meet the needs of students.

Within limitations of budgets made available to it, the CREC Council will provide personnel, equipment, instructional supplies and materials, and other support required to meet professional staff needs and community goals. The Council, understanding that education requires continuing change, also supports continuing in-service education for certified and non-certified staff.

The Executive Director shall present regular evidence of student progress and of program modifications based on evaluations which are consistent with school/program goals and objectives. Evidence of educational productivity is important in order to evaluate the educational system, to guide improvement efforts and to develop public support for the schools.
